

THE ANTIQUES CHALLENGE

A superb team event ideal for networking. It is designed to get people chatting and having fun and is based on a concept similar to the popular 'Antiques Roadshow' television programme.

Delegates are invited to examine a selection of antiques and in most cases they may also handle them with care as some are very valuable! They must then compete to work out the estimated value of each object, whether or not they think they are real or fake and where they are from.

In addition each team will be given a set of laminated pictures of very obscure antique objects. Each team will be given the real definition of one of these objects. They must invent two totally fake definitions for that same object. Teams then compete to bluff the other teams to vote for one of their fake definitions.

Each member of the winning team gets a real, British, Roman coin at least 2000 years old!

DURATION:
1 – 3 hours

THEMES:
Teamwork, networking,
competition, fun, entertainment

ENVIRONMENT:
Indoor, seated, standing,
meeting room, conference

FUNCTION:
Team building, pre dinner,
networking, ice breaker