

WINES OF THE WORLD

A competitive team activity in which delegates get to blind taste a number of wines and cheeses and must identify which wine or cheese is which, where they come from, what grape variety or type of cheese etc. They must also try and guess the retail price of the wines and the country of origin. This is easier said than done given that we have wines from India, Lebanon, Wales, and many other unusual / eclectic sources. Delegates also must answer other wine related questions as part of the wine quiz.

Delegates can compete as individuals, in pairs or as teams and once scores are tallied prizes are given to the winners (usually wine).

It is very competitive – there's always someone in every team who thinks they know their wine and overall delegates interact, have some fun and can enjoy a drink whilst doing so.
